

GameVerse Customer Journey Map

Persona

HB

Casual Gamer

Scenario

Gamer sees a 15-second TikTok video of two friends laughing over a chaotic, funny gameplay jam with a "Tap to Play" link at the bottom

Gamer taps on using Google sign-in, selects "Relaxed Mode," and finishes a brief 30-second tutorial showing basic movement using playful metaphors

Gamer saves the app. During a 15-minute train commute to play a quick, relaxed match with randomized weekly power-ups

Gamer reviews the seasonal Battle Pass track and notices it's full of funny weapon charms, bright costumes, and cute dancing emotes

Gamer scores a hilarious, accidental win and uses the built-in "Quick chat" button to report a systems error and vote directly in the all-star group chat

Expectation

Gamer expects a lightweight, low-stress download that lets her play instantly without reading rules

Gamer expects to bypass complex strategy systems and jump right into a live match where she can learn by doing

Gamer expects the app to find a match in under 10 seconds, prioritizing connection speed over strict skill matching, with zero wait penalties if the connection drops

Gamer expects that low-hour, casual play via daily login bonuses and streamer quests will be enough to unlock her rewards without needing to "grind"

He expects a seamless, one-tap sharing tool that his friends can view immediately on their phones without requiring them to install the app first

Persona

HB

Competitive Gamer

Scenario

Gamer reads a tweet from a pro esports player praising the app's new 100-rps risk servers and low-latency matchmaking architecture

Gamer registers, selects "Competitive Mode," and is required to complete two-factor authentication (2FA) verification and link his Discord account

Gamer queues for a critical Ranked Placement match alongside her pro-youtube friend team on a weekend evening

Alex opens the in-app premium marketplace and purchases a monthly subscription that gives him access to deep personal analytics, headsets, and frame data

After months of intense tournament climbing, Gamer experiences severe burnout and toggles her profile preference from "Competitive" to "Casual"

Expectation

Expects a highly optimized, fan environment designed specifically to measure raw mechanics skill

He expects the intentional friction because it keeps toxic smurfs, multi-accounts, and cheaters out of his future matches

He expects strict Skill-based Matchmaking (SBMM) that ensures the opposing team is within a +/- 2% dps variance, supported by lag-free, integrated voice channels

He expects anti-tilt tools that give him a legitimate self-improvement edge, while strictly expecting zero "pay-to-win" mechanics or bought inventories

Gamer expects the system to instantly reorganize her app experience—featuring her hard-earned leaderboard rank while transferring her home dashboard to showcase related party modes and community content

